1 YOUR CORE VALUE PROPOSITION How clearly you articulate what makes you worth more

1. I can describe the three specific strengths that drive my market value — with concrete, data-backed examples — in under two minutes. ___ / 5
2. When someone above me asks what I bring to the table, I give a sharp, executive-level answer — not a list of responsibilities. ___ / 5
3. I know the difference between what I do and what I'm actually worth — and I can articulate that difference clearly to a decision-maker. ___ / 5

Section 1 Score ___ / 15

2 YOUR POSITIONING AND MATERIALS How your LinkedIn, résumé, and narrative are landing

4. My LinkedIn profile reads like someone already operating at the level I'm targeting — not like a summary of my current job description. ___ / 5
5. A senior executive who doesn't know me could read my résumé and immediately understand the scale of impact I've had — without decoding it. ___ / 5
6. My career narrative connects where I've been directly to where I'm going — rather than just documenting a history. ___ / 5

Section 2 Score ___ / 15

3 HOW YOU COMMUNICATE IN THE ROOM Whether you sound like a $300K hire in the conversations that matter

7. In high-stakes conversations — with senior leadership, in interviews, in performance reviews — I communicate with executive-level confidence and precision. ___ / 5
8. I know how to position my past experience as directly relevant to a role or level I haven't held yet — without it sounding like a stretch. ___ / 5
9. When asked 'tell me about yourself,' I have a response that positions me at the level I'm going for — not the level I'm at. ___ / 5

Section 3 Score ___ / 15

4 HOW OPPORTUNITIES FIND YOU

Whether your network and visibility are working for you

10. Recruiters reach out to me regularly with roles at or above the level I'm targeting — without me actively searching. __ / 5
11. My professional network actively opens doors for me rather than simply acknowledging that I'm good at what I do. __ / 5
12. I have a clear, deliberate strategy for building visibility with decision-makers at the level I'm targeting — and I'm executing it. __ / 5

Section 4 Score __ / 15

5 YOUR SALARY AND OFFER STRATEGY

Whether you're positioned to win compensation conversations

13. I know exactly what my market value is at the level I'm targeting — not just what I currently earn or what job postings list. __ / 5
14. I have a clear, practiced strategy for negotiating compensation that doesn't rely on hoping the other side makes a fair offer. __ / 5
15. In my last salary conversation, I walked away feeling I got what I was worth — rather than what they were willing to offer. __ / 5

Section 5 Score __ / 15

What Your Score Means

- 60 – 75 Strong foundation, targeted gaps.
Your positioning is largely working. One or two specific areas are costing you — review the sections where you scored below 10 and focus there first.
- 45 – 59 Significant gaps in multiple areas.
You're performing well but the market isn't reading you at the level you're operating. The gap is real and fixable — but requires work across more than one area simultaneously.
- 30 – 44 The positioning is the problem.
Your experience likely outpaces how you're being perceived. This is fixable, but requires a systematic rebuild — not a résumé update.
- Below 30 Start with the diagnosis.
Something specific is going on — a company problem, a positioning problem, or both. Before investing in any next step, you need an outside read on which it is.
